Love . . . Faithfulness . . . Sincerity . . .
Helpfulness . . . Encouragement . . .

We have found a personality which possesses this rare mixture of qualities. That person who embodies all these attributes is precious to those of us in the senior class. We feel that she deserves this recognition for the lasting trust she has displayed in us and our school. Her "teachings" have become a part of us and we shall continue to be grateful. For her support, her assistance, her guiding wisdom . . . we, the class of 1969, with great appreciation, dedicate this WHITE CAP to DR. ELEANOR EASLEY.

A Sound Foundation Achieved Through Fundamentals

A beginning for some enough for others
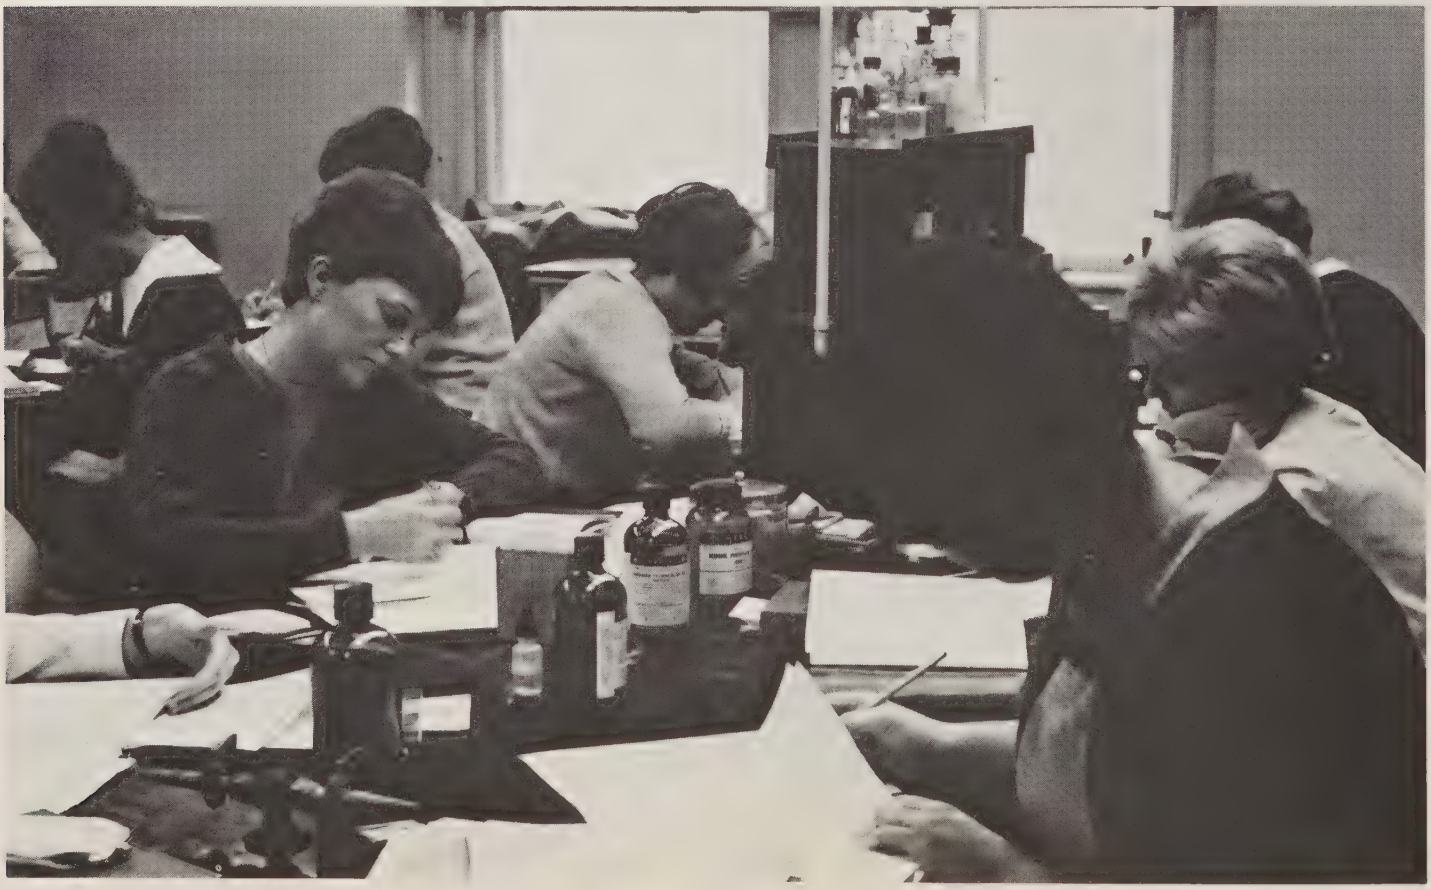
a time of infinite importance



Freshmen begin their nursing skills through fundamental studies and practice of procedures. Under supervision they learn the basic techniques and the "whys"; together, these are carried to the clinical area for more effective use. This is the "framework" on which they will build for the next three years.

Obstetrics

Each of us was made by God and some of us grew tall. Others stood out in the wind, their branches bent and fell . . .

Those of us who walk in light must help the ones in darkness up.
For that's what life is all about and love is all there is to life . . .

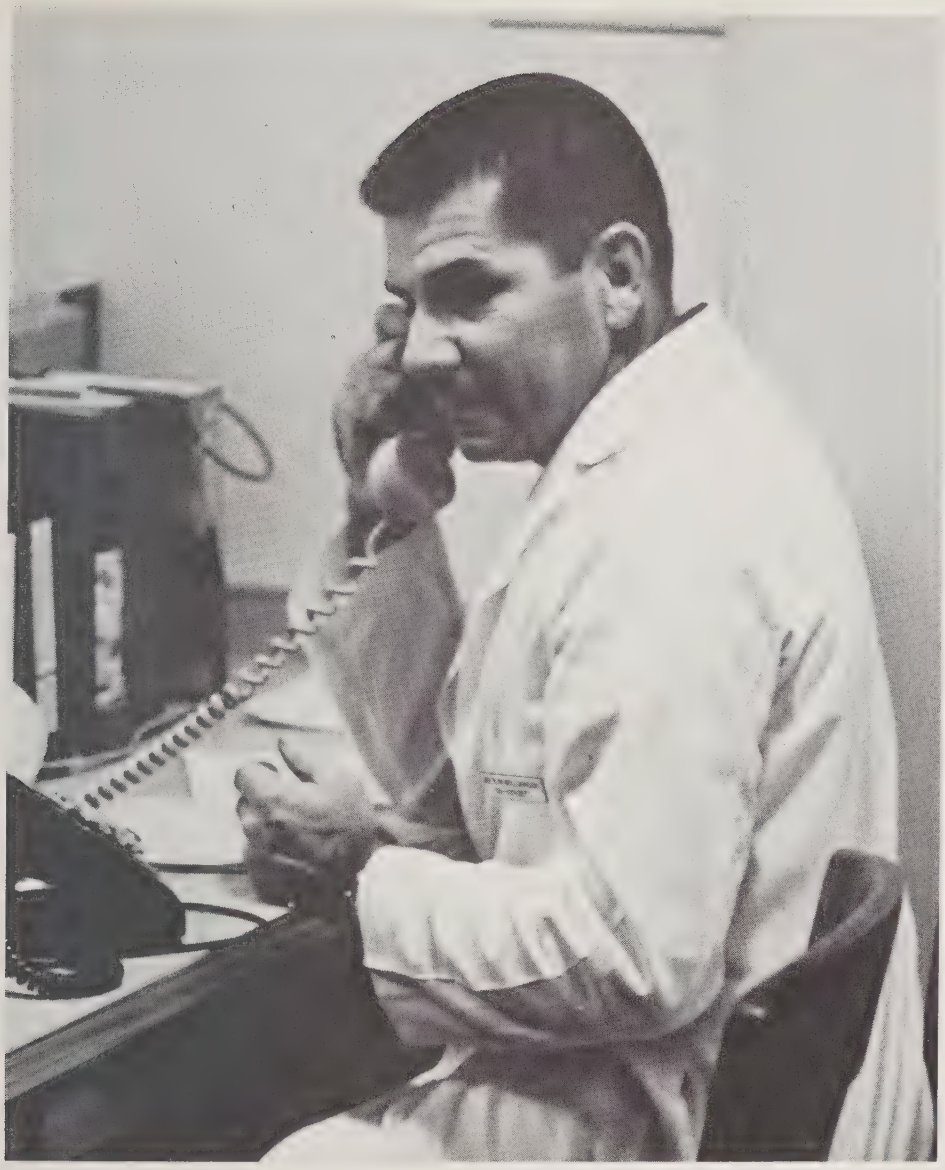
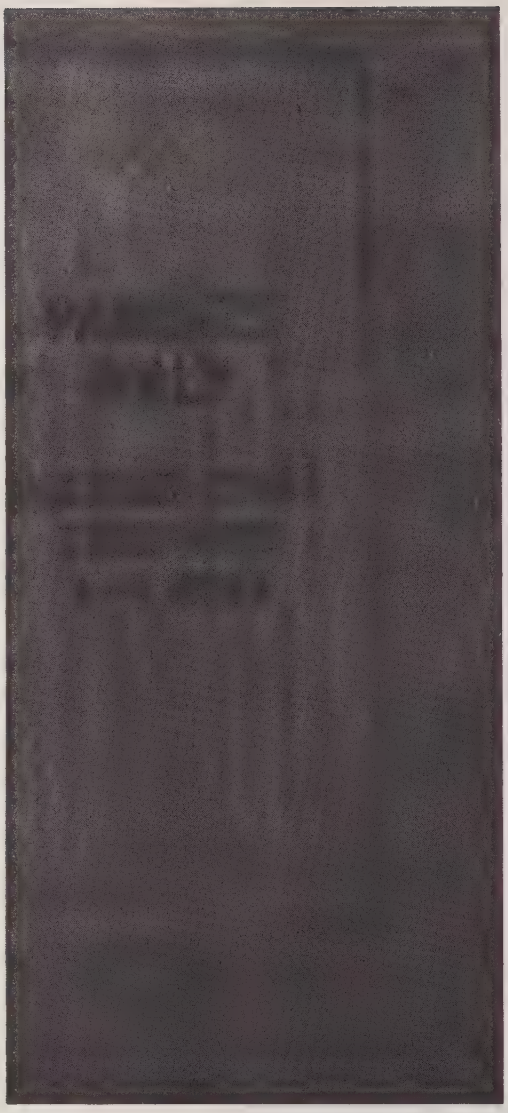
Each of us was made by God beautiful in His mind's eye . . .

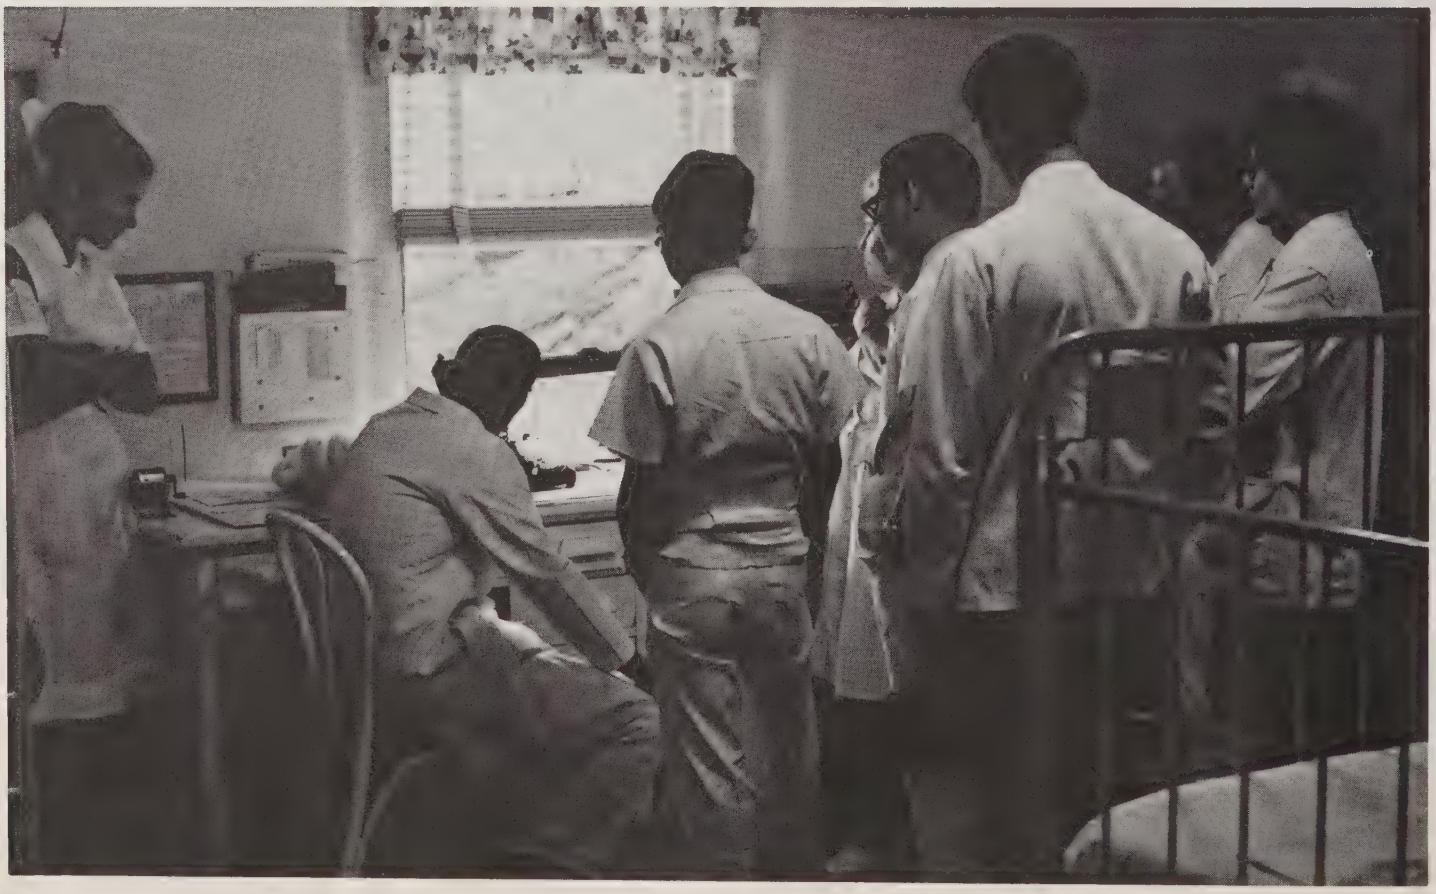


Those of us that turned out sound should look across our shoulders once and help the weak ones to their feet. It only takes an outstretched hand--Rod McKuen.

Pediatrics

Pediatrics encompasses all that is young, trusting, and full of hope. In its halls among an array of battered toys and soiled diapers lie countless joys and occasional heartbreaks which we in time may leave but which never leave us. It reveals memories from the past, hopes for the present and glimpses of a future which will some day be our own. Our motto we leave to those who follow us: May all your troubles, too, be little ones.



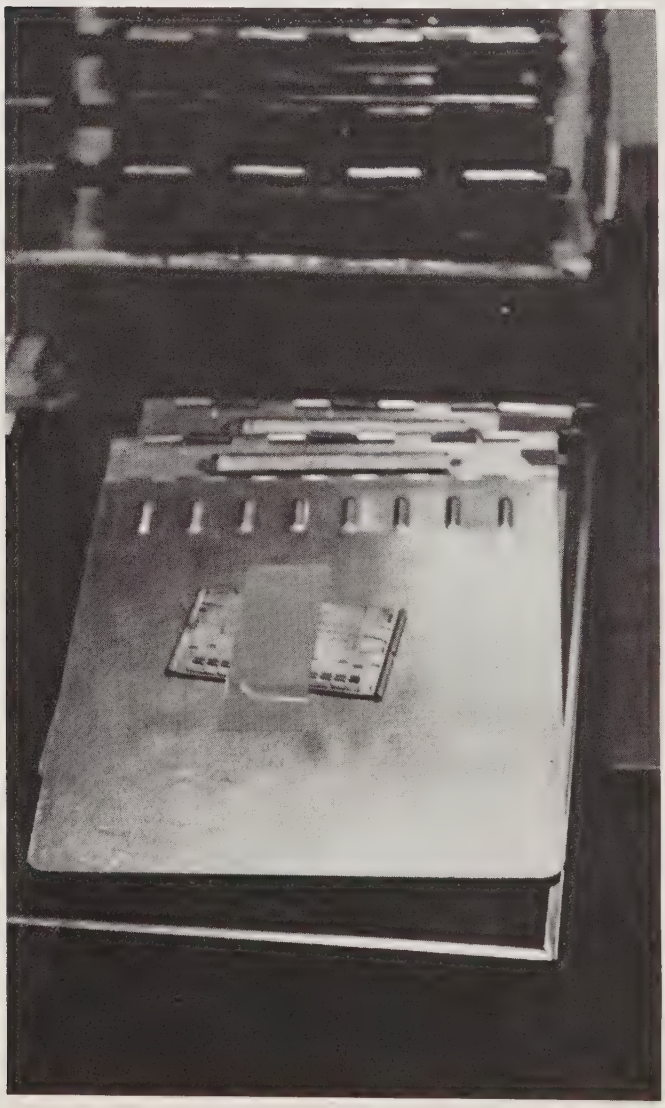


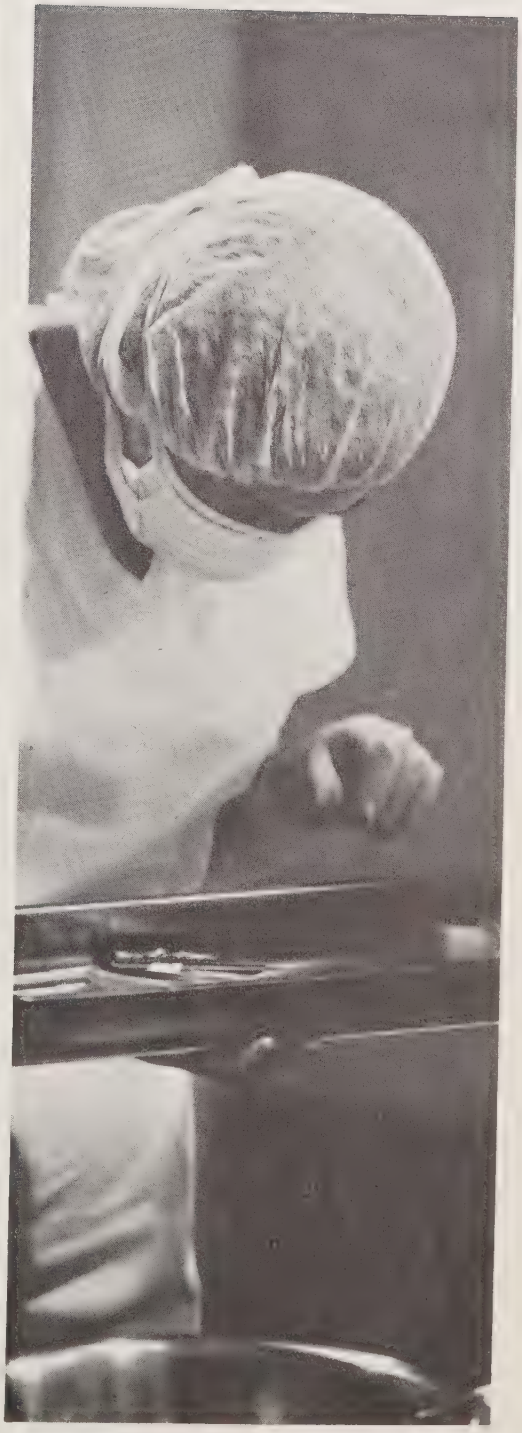
Blessings on thee, little man, Barefoot boy, with cheek of tan! With thy turned-up pantaloons, and thy merry whistled tunes--John Greenleaf Whittier.

Sweet babe, in thy face soft desires I can trace, secret joys and secret smiles, little pretty infant wiles--William Blake.

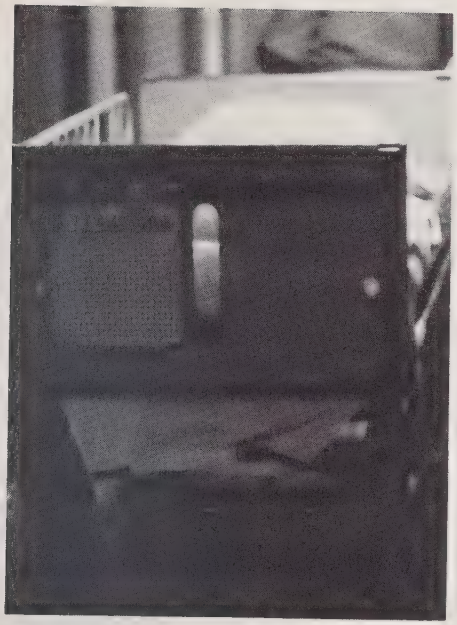
The Mystery Of Surgery Becomes Real

During her experience in the operating room, the student gains a "working knowledge" of nursing functions related to the total care of the patient requiring surgical intervention. Students are oriented to aseptic techniques, special terminology, surgical procedures, and teamwork. An opportunity is provided to develop an awareness to the unexpected needs of the surgical patient. Through each of these, the student increases her ability to provide effective continuity of nursing care.





A taste of every sort of knowledge is necessary to form the mind, and is the only way to give the understanding its due improvement to the full extent of its capacity. --Locke



The time which we have at our disposal every day is elastic;
the passions that we feel expand it, those that we inspire contract it, and habit fills up what remains.

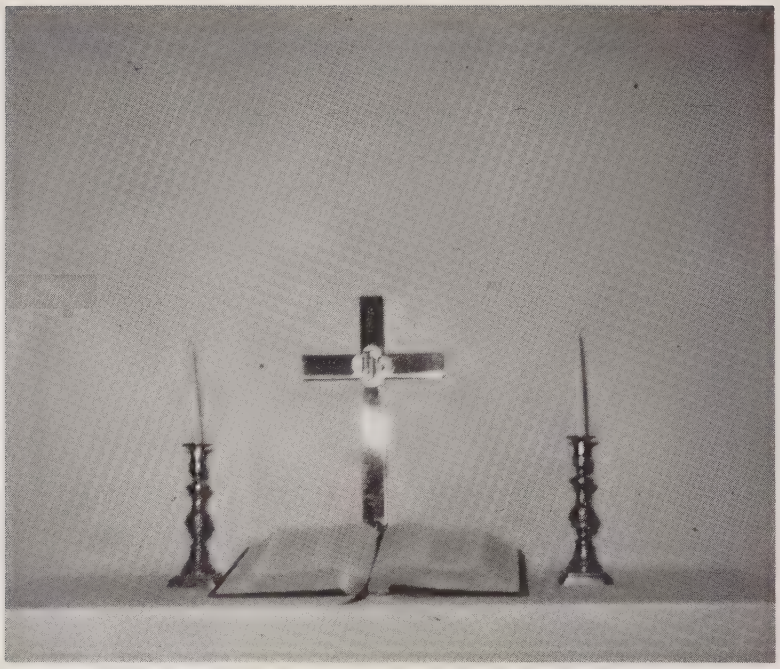
The students rule

THE STUDENTS RULE . . . We rule both in mind and in spirit. Together with our classmates and with our sponsors, we make decisions aimed to promote order, to produce fun and fellowship, and to bring us together as ONE.

Students joining together



CHRISTIAN STUDENTS UNION. Our gladness turns to sadness when the sunshine disappears. And sorrows change to happiness when God has calmed our fears."
H. L. Frisby

Student nurses moving upward

The Student Nurses Association is a pre-professional organization designed to enrich professional growth. In March, we met with members of neighboring schools of North Carolina at the state convention. Here we renewed old acquaintances and made new ones.

Each year student nurses from the state meet in competition to choose one who displays the qualities of the "ideal" student nurse. The young lady chosen reigns as Miss Student Nurse of the Year. We feel that Mary Carole Blanc represented our school well in this event.

Relaxation

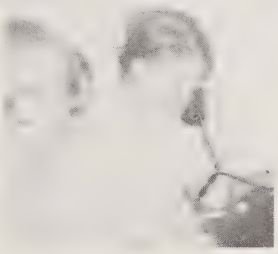
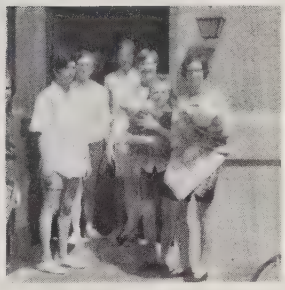
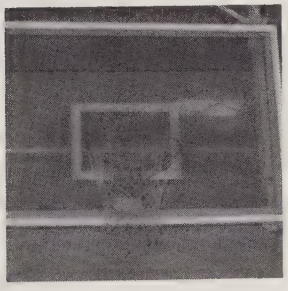
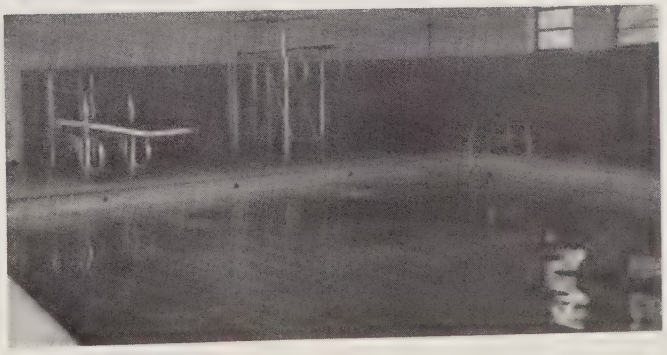
Best

The perspiration dropping from your brow while exercising at the YMCA . . . The scorching of Mr. Sun against a sunburned back . . . Doughnuts, doughnuts, and more doughnuts . . . Who shall ever forget?









Lift up your voice in joyful sound

The lyrical sounds of joyous music radiates each Wednesday evening as our Glee Club members meet. Together with their leader, these girls diligently practice in order to ensure magnificent performances. One such performance occurs in the spring when our girls join with the UNC Gleemen to present a Spring Concert.

Years captured in hours

To capture each phase of our lives at Watts was our intention. Work was bountiful. Worry was plentiful. Hours were long; but satisfaction abundant. By guidance from the co-editors, Diane Gibson and Billie Jean Moore, we, the annual staff, worked diligently to present this yearbook to you. Also, our special gratitude to Sandy Pruitt for her conscientiousness as Business Manager and Mr. Allengood for the many hours he devoted to this annual both as our photographer and advisor.

WHITE CAP DANCE

May 17 brought to a close months of "badgering, "borrowing," and "beggin" from the students. Each class worked hard to earn the right to crown their candidate queen, but tradition again repeated itself as the senior candidate, MARTHA CURRIN escorted by DR. PHILIP PEARCE, was crowned MISS WHITE CAP 1969 by DR. GORDON CARVER. Her attendants were ELLA HAWKINS, Junior class candidate escorted by DR. THOMAS STOKES, and JACKIE HARRIS, Freshman class candidate escorted by DR. MICHAEL BERKET.

I solemnly pledge myself before God and in the presence of this assembly; to pass my life in purity and to practice my profession faithfully. I will abstain from whatever is deleterious and mischievous and will not take or knowingly administer any harmful drug. I will do all in my power to elevate the standards of my profession, and will hold in confidence all personal matters committed to my keeping and all family affairs coming to my knowledge in the practice of my profession. With loyalty will I endeavor to aid the physician in his work and devote myself to the welfare of those committed to my care.

A band colored black

August comes, and departure nears. We, elated, but saddened, seniors prepare for our big day when we will don our uniforms of white. But, this day also necessitates that we relinquish our black bands forever.

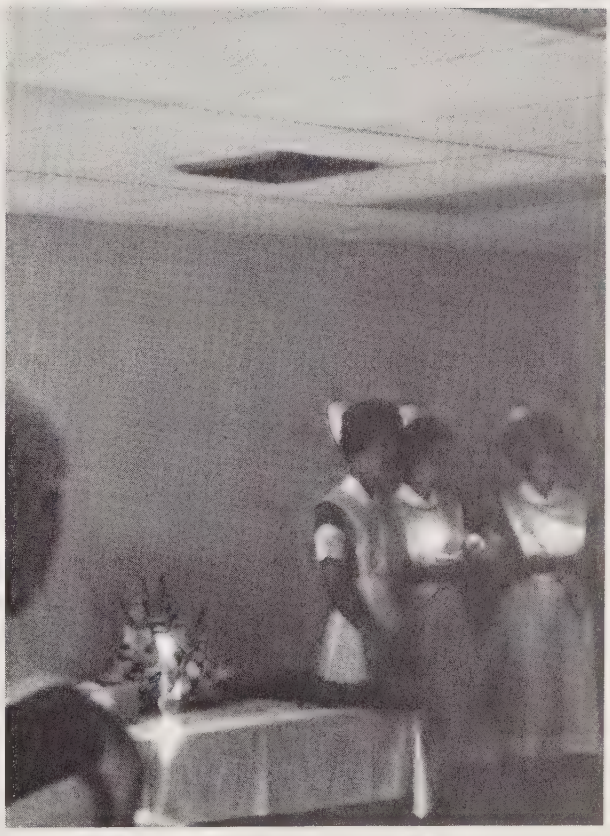
Tradition deems it necessary that our bands be received by our followers, our "little sisters". Confidence and a sense of gratification are displayed as we place these narrow bands of black, illumined gold, onto their caps.

"Did you know you were brave, did you know you were strong? Did you know that you helped when I erred? Did you know I grew stronger and better because I had merely touched shoulders with you?"

Arthor Unknown

We, the Senior Class of 1968-1969, present to you, Mrs. Greta Brooks, the Lois Cox Award.

Formed at Duke in 1943, but adopted here at Watts was a Senior honor society known as Santa Filomena. To be chosen for this special honor, the student selected must have exhibited qualities of outstanding leadership, dedication and love of nursing, and be relatively high in scholastic standing. The members of this special society are selected each August in a formal tapping ceremony. We feel that Brenda Blackburn, Mary Carole Blanc, Billie Godwin, Susan Bennett, Hilda Holloway and Linda Clark well deserved this honor. Santa Filomena's symbol of a miniature gold lamp is being worn well.



Annie, who appears to be a chipped and battered figurine of plaster, possesses a meaning far beyond the picture she presents. She has been a tradition at Watts since 1943; it was in this year that a senior student won Annie at the State Fair. This senior having had no roommate of her own, chose to share Annie by passing her on after her graduation to the two closest roommates. Since the first year that Annie moved to Watts, she has become a symbol of congeniality and understanding between two chosen roommates. This year, Annie has lived with Billie Jean Moore and Anita Moody.
